

Refs: None

3. No.

If the root needs to be split, allocating a new node to be the new root is needed. But when non-root nodes are split, they just throw the middle key to the parent. Operations are different.